PROJECTS

Long Journey

A command line Javascript application, a text based adventure game that allows the user to go on a journey in the terminal

- Designed the game idea and implemented it in Javascript and Node.js (using additional packages chalk and readlineSync)
- Used control flow to create multiple choices for a user. Used both for and while loops to create a more complex battle logic.

Snowman Game

A command line JavaScript application that allows the user to guess a word one letter at a time in the terminal

- Implemented an assigned game idea in Javascript and Node.js (using additional packages chalk and readlineSync)
- Used a random word generator to choose a word from an array. Used if statements and loops to check the user's input. Used an object to store player stats.

Rock Paper Scissors Lizard Spock

A command line JavaScript application that allows the user to attempt to beat the computer in the terminal

- Implemented an assigned game idea in Javascript and Node.js (using additional packages chalk and readlineSync)
- Used a random generator to make a selection for a computer. Used if statements to check the user's input vs computer's selection. Used an object to keep score.
